REPORT ON THE RAILROAD LAND FORFEITURE BILL

AGREED TO IN THE SENATE TO-DAY.

That Body Also Passes the House Anti-Lottery Bill.

KENNEDY'S CENSURE OF SERATOR OUAY.

Mr. Blount Speaks to Mr. Enloe's Resolution ... Speaker Reed Expresses His Views on the Matter,

The Senate met at 11 a. m. with Vice-President Morton in the chair. Mr. Hiscock introduced a bill to authorize the construction of a tunnel connecting Staten Island with Long Island, N. Y. the same as the bill introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. Covert of New York.

The Senate then proceeded to con-sider for an hour bills on the calendar unobjected to, the first bill being Senate bill authorizing the Librarian of Congress to purchase at not exceeding $30,000 "Townsend's Library of Nadonal, State and Individual Records' tional, State and Individual Records' concerning the origin, progress and consequences of the late civil war.

Mr. Cockrell questioned the utility of the proposed purchase, and commented upon Mr. Evant's having reported it, and having also reported another bill appropriating $50,000 for another book, a roster of the war, that would only be of use to pension sharks.

Mr. Evarts said that he had reported Mr. Evarts said that he had reported both of the bills by order of the joint Library Committee. Mr. Spofferd, the librarian, had recommended the pur-chase of the collection, and the bill had received the approval of every member of the committee. It should belong to the United States and be accessible to historians and readers. Its value could not be overestimated. There was not a question of job or profit in it.

Mr. Walthall moved to amend the bill by inserting a proviso that the librarian shall examine the work carefully and see that it contains nothing that is ot authentic history.

The amendment was rejected—reas, nays, 32, and the bill was passed.

House bill for marking the lines of battle and the positions of troops of the Army of Northern Virginia at Gettyaburg, Pa., was passed. Also Senate bill appropriating $75,000 for a public building at Bar Harbor, Me.

Consideration of the conference re-Consideration of the Cand Forfeiture port on the Railroad Land Forfeiture bill was resumed, and Mr. Morgan contill was resumed, and Mr. Morgan contill was resumed, and Mr. Morgan contilled to the continuous co tinued his argument against it. He spoke of the first section of the bill as unconstitutional, and said that the bill was more sham and protence as a for-After further debate, the conference report was agreed to, yeas 30, nays 13, the Democrats voting in the negative and the Republicans in the affirmative.

The House Anti-Lottery bill was then taken up, rend and passed.

In the House. The House this morning proceeded to the consideration of the Enloe resolution relative to the Kennedy speech The pending question was on the point of order raised against the resolution by Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio.

Mr. Blount of Georgia, in arguing the point of order, recalled the Brooks-Summer episode, and cited the action of the House in that case. The gentleman from Ohio (Kennedy) had been so indignant at the action of a certain Senstor that he proceeded to denounce him in vigorous language. The Senator had been denounced as a felon, and as a traitor. He had been charged with colleaguing with another Senator to betray an obligation he owed to the Whenever a member of this body arraigned a Senator as a felon and a traitor by reason of his conduct in regard to legislation, there could be no question but that the character of the House was assailed. If there were any question about it here the public interest manifested throughout the country showed the public conception of the attitude of the gentleman from Ohio and the duty of the House. Mr. Blount was not here to vindicate the character of the Senator from Pennsylvania. He was not here to investigate whether or not the charges made by the gentleman from Ohio were true or not. These were matters with which no member had anything to do; but the question of the character and dignity of the House wa one with which members had something to do, and for which the peo-ple would hold them to a rigid respon ibility. Here was a case where a mem ber of the other body was deliberately carefully and solemnly denounced to his public conduct in the Senate Would it be said that the gentleman had spoken of the "Chairman of the Republican National Committee!"

What has the chairman of the Republican National Committee to do in the Schale Chamber? The gentleman had referred to the Senator from Penn-sylvania, and his designation of him as the chairman of the Republican National Committee was merely a device to escape responsibility.

The Speaker, in rendering his decision, said that there could be no doubt that the legislative proceedings of the two co-ordinate branches of the of the two co-ordinals branches of the Legislature would be very much impeded if improper reflections were allowed by the members of the one body upon members of the other. This was so plain so well established that it seemed unnecessary to say a word in regard to it. It was founded on that principle which caused members of the House to speak of each other by a plane rather than caused members of the House to speak of each other by a phrase rather than by name. It was intended as far as possible to keep personal feeling out of legislation, and the Chair was very giad not only fer the advantage of the relations between the House and the Senate, but for the advantage of the relations among members of the House that this question should be passed up in such a manner as would make an imprecasion upon all. The chair, therefore, over-ruled the point of order ruled by Mr. Grosvenor.

Mr. Hayne of Pennsylvania offered a resolution referring the Eulos resolu-tion together with Kennedy's speech, to the Committee on Judicinar, with instructions to that committee to ex-mine the speech and the rules and practice regulating debate, and report is facilities to the House within three

Mr. Enloc thought there was no occasion for sending the resolution to any committee. The facts were before the fouse and there was no judicial ques-

Mr. McMillu of Tennesse thought the House should purge its record of each calcumy as was found in the speech of the gentleman from Ohio.

There was but one thing for the House to do. It could not censure the gentleman; it could not expel bim sed it could not afford to let its record be encumbered with vile cal-monies. Helerring to recent disorderly scenes on the floor of the House, he said that he spoke of them with blushing and in shame. Language had been used which he would not repeat here or discubere, and the scenes had culminated in a flat fight.

The motion to refer will probably prevail, and whatever resolution of censure the committee report will be

The house was considerably shattered.

His arm was so badly crushed that it will have to be amputated. The boy lives on Ninth street southwest, near Maryland avenue. He was attended by Dr. Bowman and afterward removed to Providence Hospital.

The annual Canstatter Volksfest, which was to have taken place yester day at Schuetzen Park was postponed until to-day on account of the dampuesa of the ground. The festival originated in Wurtemberg about three-quarters of in Wurtemberg about three-quarters of a century ago, and was suggested by King William as a thanksgiving day for the return of peace and good harvests to the land. It was first held at Canstatt, where, upon their knees, the people returned thanks. It is to the Germans what Thanksgiving Day is for the Americans. Americans, a day of general praise. THE FIRST LOCOMOTIVE CAB.

Name interesting Reminiscences of Vateran at Raisconding.

From the See Horea Replace, Mr. William M. Ross, a cheery old gentleman, one of the best known West Side citizens here, has bul a busy life, and has many interesting reminiscences of early rathroading. Mr. Ross is 76 years old, hate and regged.

Reas is 76 years old, hale and rugged, and his bright-faced wife is just as small as he is. Two years ago they colebrated their golden welding.

Mr. Ross was one of the first employees of the Norwich and Workester Ballroad, which was one of the first railways constructed in the country. "In 1842," said he to a Sun re-reporter, "I built the first call for a locomotive ever used in New England. Before that time the engineer and firoman on a locomotive were totally with man on a locomotive were totally without shelter on the road. They stood right out in the open air, exposed to all sort of weather, and the only protection to them-If you will call if tection-was the dome of the botter pe stood on one side of the dome, the other was on the other side of it. Finally they got tired of snow and rain driving in their faces and the company told me to see If I couldn't contrive some sort of a shelter for them. I had charge of the repairing for the company then and I went to work and med out a pretty fair sort of a cab. it protected the men, but was a great curiosity to everybody. I put it on the engine General Putnam, and it proved to be a great success. It was very much like the cabs used now.

'I also built the first snow plow for the Norwich and Worcester Road, and Trather think it was the first one ever used in New England. It was used first in the winter of 1843, but the workmen had been careless in plating it, so on its trial trip the iron scraper flew off and ditched the locomotive and the en-

"The first locomotive ever used on the Worcester Road," added Mr. Ross, "came on a vessel to Norwich and was drawn through the streets of the town. It excited a great deal of interest and curiosity and was followed through the city by a hig crowd. It was put on the road in 1838 or 1839, I believe. Its name was the Norwich and the engineer who drove it was named Robert
